TRIBUTE TO BRA THEMBA

Mr. Themba Lawrence Mdlela was the owner of the first Supermarket in Orlando East, Good Luck Stores.

Mr. Mdlela was a humble and down to earth businessman who was a true entrepreneur at heart and passionate about black business.

We are paying tribute to this man who left us on the 19th November 2021 after a short illness at the age of 81.

Mr. Mdlela was born in Orlando East on the 23rd October 1940. Affectionately known as Bra Themba. He started his entrepreneurial journey while in school at Bantu Primary School. He was a natural born businessman from an early age, a true hustler who would stop at nothing to achieve his goals.

He went on to further his skills at Dube Vocational Skills Centre. Bra Themba had a vision of breaking the barriers that are faced by aspiring black entrepreneurs, he worked hard despite the restricting laws against black people during apartheid and went on to be a successful businessman with a fleet of stores and other business throughout Soweto. (Good luck Supermarket, Roman Supermarket, Pimville Fruit Market, Good Luck Bakery, and Mdlela Distribution Centre.)

Bra Themba was a true champion of empowerment, during his lifetime he has uplifted a lot of people in the community and created employment for a great number of people. Through his charity initiatives he has assisted many students and households who were struggling with school expenses and groceries.

A PILLAR OF STRENGTH IN THE COMMUNITY

The significant mentorship and positive influence Mr Mdlela played in shaping and guiding the lives and aspirations of those around him is well recorded through countless personal stories.

Many thriving community leaders and business owners today often still talk about how much they gained from the man through his invaluable lessons on how to achieve both personal and career goals.

Bra Themba was a versatile and talented person who could communicate in many languages, a people's person who travelled around the world and met a lot of people in his lifetime.

Bra Themba lived according to a principle that "the only effective way to give back while economically growing your community was to re-invest in people rather than short term self enrichment."

The community of Orlando and surrounding have lost a giant, Bra Themba has provided a road map for all of us on how to be successful in business and in life. Start with honesty and caring for others, toss in an entrepreneurial spirit, "out-of-the-box" thinking, and the ability to come up with new ideas, and couple all of it with a lot of hard work, and you have the recipe for success.

ELECTRICITY RESTORED IN ZONE 3

After spending nearly a month without electricity, residents in Zone 3 will finally enjoy the festive season with their lights on.

Residents of Diepkloof Zone 3 resorted to take the matter to Court as a matter of urgency. The matter was heard on Thursday the 23rd December. Lawyers representing the community challenged Eskom in Court about the the illegal act of switching off electricity.

Lawyers representing the community argued that the matter is urgent and requires an urgent outcome, they also raised the following points:

- 1. A blanket approach to switch off the electricity irrespective of whether you are paying customer or not.*
- 2. The meter system is not functional, therefore resident do not have adequate information about their accounts and the money they owe.*
- 3. Eskom abused its powers as a public entity, and undermined the constitutional rights of the community.*
- 4. Businesses in the area were badly affected including the elder citizens who are vulnerable and require medical attention.*

On the other hand, Eskom argued that the matter is not urgent therefore it should be dismissed, Eskom representatives were very arrogant and did not show any care about the rights of the residents.

The Court handed out the judgement on the following day.

Stolen Cables Recovered at Orlando Scrapyard

Cable stealing is becoming a huge problem in our community. On the 17th December, residents in Orlando (Berries Section) and some parts of Diepkloof found themselves in the dark after it was discovered that their electric cables were stolen.

Members of the community conducted an investigation and discovered that the cable thieves are living among them in the community.

On Sunday the 19th December, residents of Orlando Beries Section discovered stolen electric cables at the scrapyard situated at the informal settlements situated at the outline street near Miami Ground in the Berries area.

Community members were angry and went on a rampage, they demolished and burnt several shacks believed to belong to the cable thieves. Community members are calling for the informal settlements to be removed. The police were called into the scene and calm was restored.

Several people who live in the settlement found themselves homeless and had to seek refuge elsewhere because their shacks were demolished. Most of the them complain that they had nothing to do with cable theft.

Electricity has since been restored in the area.

GETTING STARTED WITH SELLING ONLINE IS SIMPLE AND EASY!

Follow these top insider tips to maximise your chance of online success.

Having a digital presence is crucial for most businesses, especially when it comes to reaching, engaging with and maintaining a loyal customer base.

"Advertising your products and services through online platforms like Gumtree can be a very lucrative way to earn money and attract more customers than you normally would through 'traditional' platforms," says Gumtree Brand Marketing Manager Estelle Nagel. "Fortunately, getting started is simple and easy, no matter how tech savvy you are."

Based on insights from the hundreds of thousands of businesses using Gumtree to do business, Nagel offers these insider tips to help others maximise their chances of success online.

1. Setting the right price

The price you set could make or break a sale. Determining the right price is a matter of doing a little market research.

"Browse the site to see what similar items in comparable condition are selling for," says Nagel. "The price things go for can sometimes be vastly different from what you thought you could get."

Keep in mind that buyers will often try to negotiate a lower price, so it might be worth your while to add a small mark-up of around 10-20% to the final amount you are hoping to make.

2. Offer a guarantee on electronic goods

Many buyers are nervous about purchasing online, especially when it comes to expensive electronic goods. Offering a seven-day money-back guarantee goes a long way towards boosting buyer confidence. Include this in your ad description.

3. Provide viewing and pick-up details

Many buyers choose to view an item in person before they buy it. To avoid too much time spent going back and forth to find a time that suits everyone, provide the time and days that suit you for a viewing in your ad write-up. Buyers will then be able to work around your schedule.

4. Be honest

Make sure the information you provide about the item you are selling is 100% accurate. While it may seem obvious, using vague and misleading descriptions can discourage people from wanting to buy from you.

"If you are a frequent Gumtree seller, building trust is crucial to your continued success. So always write accurate and honest ads," says Nagel.

5. Keep your response rate up

If a buyer is in the market for a specific item that is widely available on Gumtree, they're likely to reply to multiple different sellers at once. Be the first to reply and you up your chances of making the sale.

"Replying speedily not only means you beat other sellers to the sale, but you appear more efficient and professional – which makes buyers trust you more," says Nagel. 📧

WIN AT GROCERY BULK-BUYING

Follow these tips to make the planning process easier and ensure you get the best bulk deals and savings too!

It is that time of the year again when stokvels start preparing to buy their end-of-year groceries in bulk. From booking transport services to making sure that you get the bulk-buying deals you need, there are a number of factors to deal with and careful planning must be made.

Before you choose your store or supplier, the following factors need to be taken into consideration:

Choosing your store

- Secure shopping environment: Does the store offer a secure shopping environment with electronic funds transfer facilities that are safer than cash payments?
- Stock availability: Does the store have enough stock and brands to meet your needs? It is wise to check well in advance if the store or supplier will have sufficient stock of the exact brands and products you want. This will prevent unnecessary money being spent on products that were not decided on within your stokvel group.
- Location: Is the store in a convenient and safe location? Taking into consideration transport costs, is the store or supplier far from where your goods need to be delivered?
- Pre-orders and stock picking: Is there a store assistant that helps with picking and checking your order? Are you able to pre-order online or telephonically?
- Deliveries: Does the store offer a delivery service or can it assist you with a reliable service provider? If the store doesn't have that option, it is advisable to only book reputable transport services to deliver your groceries. Choose someone you know or who has assisted you in the past. The transport service provider must have contactable references.
- Extended hours: Does the store offer extended hours for stokvel pre-orders?
- After-sales support: What are the store procedures and rules regarding incorrect orders, damaged stock and payment disputes? Should something go wrong, is the store willing to assist in rectifying the problem?

How much do I buy?

It is important to sit down with all stokvel members and decide how much stock of each item will be purchased. Consider the family size of each stokvel member. Buying in bulk not only saves you money but also saves you time, as the items purchased will last for a long time. Keep in mind the storage facilities that each member has, as well as perishable items that will be bought in bulk.

Expiry dates

Do not purchase and accept goods with expired dates or dates that will soon expire. It is best to check the expiry date on each item while you are at the store. Even better, give the responsibility of checking expiry dates on each item to all members of the stokvel group who will be assisting at the store. This is a quicker way to check for not only expired goods, but for damaged packaging etc. as well.

Storage facilities at home

Consider your storage facilities before buying groceries in bulk. Check instructions on each product's packaging for the proper storage requirements. Poor storage will affect the product quality and it will not last as long as you had hoped. Proper storage will ensure freshness and keeps the nutritional value of the product. Incorrect storage of products may lead to an infestation of cockroaches and rats. Stock up on sealable storage containers and plastic wrap before your products arrive at home.

Know your consumer rights

Knowledge is power and if you are not satisfied with the service from a store, speak up immediately. You have a right to high quality goods and services. Suppliers are not allowed to vary the quality of a product or service in a discriminatory manner. All consumers should be treated equally, irrespective of gender, race, socio-economic status or their geographic locations. 🗣️

WHAT IS CRYPTOCURRENCY

A cryptocurrency is a digital or virtual currency that is secured by cryptography, which makes it nearly impossible to counterfeit or double-spend.

Many cryptocurrencies are decentralized networks based on blockchain technology—a distributed ledger enforced by a disparate network of computers. A defining feature of cryptocurrencies is that they are generally not issued by any central authority, rendering them theoretically immune to government interference or manipulation.

Understanding Cryptocurrencies

Cryptocurrencies are digital or virtual currencies underpinned by cryptographic systems. They enable secure online payments without the use of third-party intermediaries. "Crypto" refers to the various encryption algorithms and cryptographic techniques that safeguard these entries, such as elliptical curve encryption, public-private key pairs, and hashing functions.

Cryptocurrencies can be mined or purchased from cryptocurrency exchanges. Not all e-commerce sites allow purchases using cryptocurrencies. In fact, cryptocurrencies, even popular ones like Bitcoin, are hardly used for retail transactions. However, the skyrocketing value of cryptocurrencies has made them popular as trading instruments. To a limited extent, they are also used for cross-border transfers

FOOD SAFETY IN YOUR REFRIGERATOR

By Food Focus: for help with food safety or starting a food business, visit www.foodfocus.co.za

Food safety is everyone's responsibility – that responsibility stretches from the farmers to the producers and manufacturers, to the retailers and restaurants, all the way through to the consumer. That means YOU!

Since the fridge is where we store our perishable food, it makes sense to pay special attention to food safety when it comes to this area of our kitchen. So...

Keep your refrigerators cold!

You need to maintain the temperature below 4°C in the fridge and the freezer from -12°C to -18°C. In the freezer section. Keeping fridge doors closed, and seals clean and working properly also helps to maintain the correct temperature in your appliance.

Don't pack your fridge too full

You need to leave space for cold air to circulate around the foods in order to maintain their temperatures at safe levels. This is especially important in hot weather when we tend to store more beverages in the fridge.

Avoid cross-contamination

Keep ready-to-eat foods like cheeses, yoghurt, cold meats, etc. on the top shelves. Raw foods such as meat and poultry should be stored on lower shelves to avoid leaking of juices onto other foods, which could contaminate them.

Keep it covered

Make sure to keep foods in your fridge stored in containers or plastic wrap to keep them fresh and to avoid cross-contamination.

Use it or lose it

It is important to remember that, even in a fridge, food won't keep indefinitely. This applies especially to pre-cooked and ready-to-eat foods – so make sure to keep them cold and follow the instructions on the packaging regarding use-by dates.

Even when in the store, fill your trolley with the non-perishables first, and do the cold aisles and perishable foods at the end, just before you go to the tills.

If in doubt, throw it out— in saying that, we hate food waste, so a better choice would be to plan effectively and use all the food in your fridge while it is still fresh and tasty.

Leftovers

These must be cooled quickly and refrigerated within two hours of cooking – don't leave them out at room temperature, as that provides a breeding ground for bacteria.

Marinades

It's important to marinate your foods in a container INSIDE the fridge – not out on the counter.

Maintain the chain

The cold chain, that is. This means don't let your groceries defrost or warm up too much before you get them home and into the fridge or freezer. Experts recommend no longer than two hours outside the fridge between shop and home, and no more than an hour on a hot day! Make sure to plan your trips to the grocery store so that you go home straight after shopping and take a cooler bag/box with you so that you can pop your perishables in it for the journey especially in the hot summer weather.

PS: Even when in the store, fill your trolley with the non-perishables first, and do the cold aisles and perishable foods at the end, just before you go to the tills.

Keep it clean

Clean your refrigerator and freezer regularly (especially spills from raw meats). If you remember the listeria outbreak of 2018, you will recall that bacteria like this can even grow at cold temperatures, so fridge hygiene is important.

First, clean your refrigerator thoroughly with warm soapy water. Then mix 1 teaspoon of unscented bleach to 1 litre of water. Put in a spray bottle, spray the surface, let it stand for 10 minutes, then wipe clean with a paper towel. Let it air dry. (Remember to use this bleach solution immediately, as it becomes less effective if left to stand.)

Check the dates

Check expiry and use-by dates on products such as sauces and condiments that hang around in your fridge for a while and make sure they are not posing a risk. This use-by date applies to frozen food too, so make sure you know the shelf life of your frozen food. 🍴
